Media Update #6: April 2010

ABAE thanks the FTTH Conference for its donation

An eco-charge of €3 from each conference entry fee was donated to the Associação Bandeira Azul da Europa (ABAE), a Portuguese non-governmental organisation engaged in raising public awareness in matters of sustainable development and good environmental practices. This donation will support projects in schools throughout Portugal under the framework of the International Eco-schools programme. Thanking the FTTH Council Europe, ABAE said it was “highly appreciative of the support given by the conference.”

FTTH Conference photos now online!

Photos from the official conference photographer in Lisbon have been posted in the online media centre. You'll find them in their own section under the “pictures” tab. And if you haven't seen them already, the video reports compiled by the student video team are definitely worth a look, and will give you a flavour of the event.

Check out the new-look media centre

After you've looked at the conference photos, stay awhile and have a rummage around the media centre. We've reorganised the content to make it easier to find, and it includes an online press kit, photos, reports, member news and much more.
