FTTH Council Europe's President to speak at ECTA Conference in Brussels

BRUSSELS, 25 June 2015 – The FTTH Council Europe's President Edgar Aker will speak at the European Competitive Telecommunications Association (ECTA) One Day Conference 2015 on 30 June in Brussels. During the first session of the CEO panel, he will specifically focus on the key issue of investments for Europe's global competitiveness.

As the European Commission is preparing the overhaul of Europe's telecoms rulebook, ECTA's conference will explore the following topic: "Writing digital history: game changer policies for a connected Single Market", with discussions about the fundamental questions for creating a genuinely connected European economy and society.

"The FTTH Council Europe is glad to share its expertise at the ECTA Conference, as our organisation concentrates its efforts on creating the right conditions for fibre access networks and fibre-enabled services to flourish throughout Europe. Long term investments in European infrastructures are crucial in this matter, and future-proof FTTH networks are a good example of this", Edgar said. "Working to see a strong competitive and connected network environment that will support leading edge digital innovation and services in Europe is at the core of our activities."
